

It's That Turf Time of Year!

Southern California's short cool weather window is the ideal time to take care of turf health care needs for a lush, green lawn.

Many issues can cause turf to decline and become patchy, including: compaction of the soil, irrigation insufficiencies, poor soil conditions, excess thatch, fertility insufficiencies, poor air circulation, and old or unsuitable grass varieties.

Stay Green offers a full line of services to get your lawn back on track!
